The recent wind may have caused some damage to your trees. It may be necessary to remove some limbs. If this is your situation, remove only those that are necessary for immediate repairs. Too much removal of wood in one season can cause sun scald, soft sucker growth and weak branching habits.

Whitewash bark to the inner wood with galvanized nails if pruning seems possible. Coat all wounds and pruning cuts with a commercial tree wound dressing.

It's time to start the job of pruning fruit trees. We have guidelines for pruning trees and vines for the asking.

Dairymen can get first calf heifers milking earlier with better feeding. If Holstein heifers weigh 750 pounds at 14 months of age, they should be in the barn at 23 to 24 months of age.

A disease that attacks the brain and nerve tissue of cattle has been diagnosed by Virginia Tech veterinarians as polioencephalomalacia.

This disease was found in a herd of 150 feeder cattle in central Virginia.

Death, blindness, incoordination and coma are associated with this disease.

It appears to affect cattle in feedlots most often during the winter months.

What varieties of vegetables will you select for 1971. Authorities tend to disagree a bit on just which ones are the best. You need to keep trying a few new ones to just see how they do for you. Disease resistance, flavor, yielding ability, and growth habits are some of the factors that I consider when selecting a variety.

There are several good varieties of snaps – Top Crop, Contender, Tenderette, and Checkoe Wax are all good choices.

Broccoli – we ought to be growing more of this nutritious vegetable. For early spring use – Green Comet, for fall choose Waltham 29 because it tolerates cold and will continue to grow after frost.

Cabbage – pick a hybrid; Stoveheat is good for the early crop and market prize for the later crop.

Select Sweet Corn based on its resistance to SLB, Silver Queen is probably the best white variety - you may want to try this year, Early Xtra Sweet.

Cucumbers - for slicing - Gemini, for pickling - Ohio SMR 18.

Salad Bowl is still tops for leaf lettuce, Imperial 44 will give satisfactory head lettuce.

Bell Boy Sweet Pepper is resistant to mosaic and drought.

Tomatoes - Delsher is hard to beet, but the fruit is a bit small, Tropic is new and has large fruit, Fantastic is a good early variety, Sunray is probably our best yellow tomato.
